the development of aviation, another demonstrating the take-off of planes from an aircraft carrier, tricks done by RAF police dogs, and other shows. That part of the evening was concluded by mass service bands, who maneuvered around the arena with tremendous noise.

After a commendable supper, E and I went off to Londonderry House, for the last private dance that will probably ever be held in it, since it is shortly to be auctioned. This scene of so much entertainment was crowded with a splendid looking company. Benny Goodman decided to entertain the guests for a while, to their exceeding delight. We got home about two o'clock, but the party was still going full blast when we left.

July 18, 1962 - Wednesday

Mrs. Pilpel came to see me this morning, to tell me what she had been doing in regard to the Dedijer business. The outlook continues murky.

Grover Brown brought in General Skaer, the new Air Attache. My old friend, Mike Ross, whom I have always considered one of the wisest advisers in the Labor movement at home, called on me.

We had a lunch at home today for
